

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Information on business activities of an enterprise to be examined is accumulated on an ASP server from a terminal of the enterprise through a network such as the Internet. An examiner such as a financial institution evaluates the activities of the enterprise based on the information on business activities of the enterprise accumulated on the ASP server to examine the enterprise. The examination typically is an examination for determining whether a new loan can be offered to the enterprise.